

Saturday, April 28, 2012 6 p.m. we'll be viewing the film "Paris, the Luminous Years".

There is perhaps no better time to be an American in Paris than between 1905 and 1930, the setting of the film, where artists and free-spirits like Pablo Picasso, Gertrude Stein, Ernest Hemingway, Sylvia Beach, Janet Flanner, and others fled American society in post-World War I America. The two hour documentary has fused a combination of old Parisian footage and contemporary scenes today.

The screening will be hosted by Colette Anderson on the new 60" TV in her living room at 1454 Forest Drive, SE, Smyrna, GA 30080.

Call Margo Hester at 404-578-6115 to reserve a place, and let us know if you'll bring an hors d'oeuvre or wine.
